Oregon Pinot Noir

Willamette Valley • Umpqua Valley • Rogue Valley

The coastal hills of Oregon are an ideal region to grow this resonant style of Pinot Noir. Along with cool summers and a short growing season, the soil and long days of sunrises are the foundation of this Pinot Noir's northern character. With the diversity throughout Oregon's coast, we have assembled a range of vineyards that allow for versatility of styles from Willamette's rose petal notes and firm acidity, to the Umpqua's rich supple core.

Regions of Origin:

Umpqua Valley – The base of the blend is the perfect middle ground for Oregon. Pinot Noir from this region has a vibrant acidity, soft structure and flavors of cherry, rhubarb and fresh tilled earth.

Willamette Valley – The coolest of the regions, it offers up cranberry and rose petal notes with an intense acidity. It is a worthy contributor in any Pinot Noir blend.

Rogue Valley - Creating richness and depth in the mouth feel and ripe plum notes, this region is on the warmer side (for Oregon). The Rogue provides a robust element to the blend with abundant yet supple tannin structure, along with a sweet red fruit core.
